CAMPAIGN KEYNOTE SOUNDED BY TAFT

ation of the law demonstrate this. It must also be remembered that the tariff rates in the new law on imported liquors, wines and silks were increased substantially over the Dingley rates, because these were luxurious and it was intended to increase the revenue.

"The charge that the present tariff is responsible for the increase in the prices of necessities is demonstrably false, because the high prices, with very few exceptions, affect articles in the tariff upon which there was no increase in rates or in respect to which there was a substantial reduction.

Tariff Board Important Feature.

"Perhaps more important than any one feature of the operative part of the tariff law, is that section which enables the Executive to appoint a tariff commission or board to secure the needed information for the proper amendment and perfection of the law. The difficulty in fixing the proper tariff rates in accordance with the principle stated in the Republican platform, is in securing reliable evidence as to the difference between the cost of production at home and the cost of production abroad. The bias of the manufacturer seeking protection and of the importer opposing it weakens the weight of their testimony. Moreover, when we understand that the cost of production differs in one country abroad from that in another, and that it changes from year to year and from month to month, we must realize that the precise difference in cost of production sought for is not capable of definite ascertainment, and that all that even the most scientific person can do in his investigation is, after consideration of many facts which he learns, to exercise his best judgment in reaching a conclusion.

Recommendations Commerce Court.

"The next most important work of the present Congress was the passage of the amendment to the Interstate Commerce bill. After the adjournment of the Congress at its extra session, I invited two of my cabinet and a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission and a member of Congress, to make recommendations as to the needed amendments to the interstate commerce act. These gentlemen reported to me, and in September last, in a speech in Des Moines, I fore-shadowed their recommendations as I intended to make them to the Congress for the amendment of the interstate commerce act.

"First, by the establishment of a commerce court; second, by empowering the commission to classify merchandise as well as to fix rates for classes; third, by giving the right to a shipper to designate the route by which his goods shall be transported beyond the line of the initial carrier; fourth, by empowering the commission to consider the justice or injustice of any rate without the complaint or initiation of a shipper; fifth, by empowering the commission to suspend proposed increases of rates by carriers until the commission shall have a chance to pass upon the reasonableness of the increase; sixth, by provisions for the Federal regulation of the issue of stocks and bonds by interstate commerce railways; seventh, by a clause forbidding any interstate commerce railway company from acquiring stock in a competing road; eighth, by a section permitting the making of traffic agreements between competing railroads limited in point of time and subject matter, and subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"These amendments were in accordance with the text of the Republican platform.

Postal Savings Banks.

"The postal savings bank has a similar history. It is one of the great Congressional enactments. It creates an epoch. It institutes a system which will work effectively to promote thrift among the poor, by providing a depository for their savings which they properly may consider absolutely safe, and will also turn into the channels of trade and commerce a large volume of money which otherwise would be hoarded. By specific provision it will stimulate the investment of savings in government bonds of small denominations, for which the bill provides. Like the tariff bill and the railroad bill, this was put through each House of Congress by a Republican majority, and was signed by a Republican President.

Important Labor Laws Enacted.

"No more important legislation in the interest of human life has ever been enacted by Congress than the laws of the recent session giving to the Interstate Commerce Commission ample powers to define the needed safety appliances for the prevention of accidents to employees and passengers, and after a hearing to require their adoption by interstate railways. Other legislation, with respect to the inspection of locomotive boilers and the removal of dangerous obstructions, awaits the consideration of the next session of this Congress, and I hope that it may speedily be passed. The employers' liability act was perfected by needed amendment so as to enable injured employees more easily to recover just damages.

"But in one sense the most forward step taken in the interest of the worker was the creation of a Congressional commission to report a practical bill for the fixing of workmen's compensation for injuries received in the employment of interstate commerce railways, as risks in the business to be fixed by speedy arbitration and to be graduated according to the extent of the injury and the earning capacity of the injured person."

Makes Appeal to Young Men.

"In closing, it may not be inappropriate for me to invite your attention, and that of all those engaged in advocating the Republican cause in the coming election, to the fact that it is of the utmost importance to make this a campaign of education as to facts and to clear away the clouds of misrepresentation that have made it difficult to secure for the Republican majorities in Congress the real credit due them from the country for the tremendous task they have accomplished. If this is brought clearly home to all voters, and especially to the young men now voting for the first time, and they become impressed, as they ought to be by this record, with the difference in the governmental efficiency and capacity of the Republican and Democratic parties, they will enroll themselves with the party of construction and progress rather than with the party of obstruction and negation, and the resulting legislation of the Sixty-second Congress will vindicate their choice.

"Sincerely yours,

"WILLIAM H. TAFT.
Hon. William B. McKinley, Chairman, Republican Congressional Committee, 1133 Broadway, New York City."
